Kurzus leírása:

Workshop's Subject

Implementing social responsibility into product & communication design, in order to realize the user's full functional potential and to promote its health.

Workshop's Objective

Providing the students with knowledge, tools and skills to design in a way that takes into account the human body's abilities and limitations and adapts to the capabilities and needs of each user. As a result, the user's performance will be enhanced, while reinforcing the values of convenience, effectiveness, healthiness, simplicity, safety, independence and respect to the user.

Workshop's Nature

The workshop is composed of 4 segments - each fragment consists of interactive theoretical lessons (combining various experiential and active-teaching techniques) and a practice session for applying the knowledge.

Recommended for Industrial Design students from all years.
